

Flair4All: It's great for moms, teens or any fashionistas or design stars on your list. It's called flair4all and its a new family-friendly line of removable wall decals (think "wall stickers"). Kids love flair4all because it lets them be in charge of designing their own space with over 70 designs in seven different color palettes to choose from, there's always something for anyone. They also love flair4all because it'll stick on almost anything glass, wood, textured walls even painted cement!

Moms like flair4all because it comes off the walls as easily as it goes up on them and because they're super affordable for only $20 you get three sheets of reusable wall decals. No need to buy expensive and messy paint supplies next time you want to redesign any space in your home, or worry about nail holes if you're a renter with flair4all anyone can leave a mark without leaving a mark.

The product is available online only at <http://www.flair4all.com> ✓

We received the Dreamy Butterfly Posh Pack for review, and my girls love it! We used them to decorate up their room in preparation for their new big girl beds. They're growing up, and wanted a big girl room. I love it because we're renting, and it's so easy to peel them off the wall when/if I need to!

Tervis tumblers really are a great gift they are functional and fun and there is really something for everyone in the family. Here are some quick features & benefits:
